Thank you for purchasing an Infantino carrier. Our customers are some of the toughest to please. They expect to be caressed, cradled, delighted, pampered and admired 24 hours a day. So we've designed our carriers (and a lot of other neat stuff) to help keep these little ones happy. A lot of time and effort goes into designing our carriers. We spend hours with our test moms and babies. We ask them what works. We watch what works. And the result – the most comfortable carriers on the market.

we think like babies.

Caution

IMPORTANT!

Check frequently to make sure that your baby's head and body are in an upright position in the carrier. Baby's chin should not point down toward baby's chest. Use the facing in position until baby can hold head and shoulders up without assistance. Baby should only face out when he or she can support his or her own head and is awake!

Caution

Do not wear your CuddlyRider™ while cooking or engaging in activities which might prove harmful to your baby.

Warnings

This carrier is only intended for use by adults while walking or standing—never use this carrier while running, biking, jogging, or operating any type of motorized vehicle.

Do not bend at the waist when leaning down—always bend at the knees to make sure that baby stays securely in carrier.

Never leave baby unattended. Carrier is not designed for holding child in motor vehicles and should not be used in place of a car seat that meets federal motor vehicle safety standards.

This carrier is subject to normal wear and tear during use. Before each use, carefully inspect the carrier for any signs of loose seams, tears or separation, or broken hardware.

There should always be room between baby's face and your chest to provide a clear source of air.

If baby falls asleep, turn baby's face to the side to provide an unobstructed source of air.

Before returning this carrier to the store for any reason, let us try to help you! Please call us toll-free at 1-800-840-4916

Please carefully review these instructions and cautions. Keep for future reference.

Using your CuddlyRider™

Putting on Your CuddlyRider™

IMPORTANT!

Always put carrier on your body before putting in baby! Unbuckle the shoulder straps and slip the carrier over your head. The carrier's front opening should be against your chest. The plastic strap holder should be between the bottom of your shoulder blades

Fasten the buckle at the end of your shoulder strap to each side of the carrier. Pull each end of the strap until the carrier fits snugly against your body.

Adjusting Your CuddlyRider™

Adjust the carrier until baby is high on your chest. You should be able to easily kiss the top of your baby's head. Gently lift baby with one hand and pull on the end of the strap at your waist. Repeat on the other side.

Make sure that the plastic clip is between the bottom of your shoulder blades.

Putting Baby in. Facing in.

Your new baby needs lots of close contact and attention! CuddlyRider's facing-in position is the perfect way to keep your little one cuddled against you. The wraparound head support cradles baby's head and neck and even provides support when baby falls asleep! You can entertain and bond with your baby by talking, touching, playing, and making eye-contact—and still have your hands free!

Carrier sides open for easy baby-entry! Unhook one side of the head support. Unbuckle the side opening and detach Velcro®.

Carefully slide baby into the carrier through the opening and hold baby against you.

Fasten Velcro® snugly at baby's side to close side opening.

Fasten buckle over Velcro® side openings, and pull on the end of webbing strap to adjust fit.

Hook the head support to the plastic triangle loop on your shoulder strap. To adjust seat height, simply support baby's weight with one hand and move hook up or down on your shoulder straps. Fasten snaps under the loop to set the desired seat height.

Hint: Moving the loop up will raise the carrier for a smaller baby. Moving the loop down will allow more room for a bigger baby.

When your baby has neck control, try folding down the head support. This will allow your little one to have eye contact with you and explore the surroundings! Flip the head support back up if baby gets sleepy!

Putting Baby in. Facing Out.

When your little one can fully support his or her own head, it is time to explore! CuddlyRider's facing-out position lets baby have the best of both worlds, being held by you and checking out the things that are going on all around you!

Fold down the head support and place baby in the carrier, facing away from you. (Follow the same steps for putting baby in - facing in.) Adjust the head support straps until baby's back is snugly against your chest. Baby should not lean forward.

A smaller baby's arms should be positioned through the arm holes (see illustration). A bigger baby's arms will rest comfortably over the sides of the head support.

IMPORTANT!

If baby falls asleep in the facing-out position, immediately switch to the facing-in position or remove baby from carrier.

Taking Baby Out.

To take baby out, simply open one side of the carrier. Unfasten the side openings, unhook the head support from your shoulder strap and slide baby out.

To remove a sleeping baby, unhook both sides of the head support. Slide one hand into the carrier and hold baby securely against your chest. Use your other hand to open the carrier sides. The carrier's front will now fall forward, and you can put your baby down, still asleep! This is also a great way to easily transfer your baby to dad, grandma, etc. when awake! Follow the above steps to release the carrier, and hand-off is easy!
